By Road

Approaching Colchester on the A12 eastbound leave the A12 at Colchester central exit. Follow the signs at each roundabout or junction to Colchester Hospital, which is designated as a red square and a white H. If there is no sign to the hospital follow the direction for "Through Route". In the centre of Colchester go under the railway bridge. Continue following the signs to the hospital, which takes you past an Asda store on your right, then turn right at the traffic lights into Turner Road. Continue along Turner Road - Colchester Hospital is on the left hand side. Immediately past Colchester Hospital are the consulting rooms at number 55 Turner Road.

By Rail

The nearest British Rail station to PHC's Colchester consulting rooms is Colchester North. The consulting rooms are approximately thirty minutes walk. You can also get a bus from the station or alternatively take a taxi.

By Bus

Any bus leaving the station coming to Colchester General Hospital will bring you to the consulting rooms. Leave the bus outside the hospital, continue walking on the same side of the road as you leave the bus in the direction that the bus is moving. Walk past the hospital and the consulting rooms at 55 Turner Road is the first building past the hospital on the left hand side.

Walking

On leaving the station cross over the roundabout near the railway bridge and walk towards the big yellow storage building on your left. As you face the building, walk up the right hand side of it until you reach the traffic lights. Cross the road and head up the hill (Turner Road). As the road straightens out Colchester General Hospital will appear on your left hand side. Walk past the hospital, past the Accident & Emergency entrance (do not turn into the hospital grounds but keep on Turner Road). The first building past the hospital is the consulting rooms at 55 Turner Road.
